ELIMINATION OF WASTE OF FRUIT MEETING THEME

A conference will be held at the Adams hotel Saturday evening, May 12, at 8 o'clock, to consider one of the biggest problems soon to be faced by the Salt River valley—that of eliminating the preventable waste of the local fruit and vegetable crops.

Every year, after profitable shipping has ceased, great quantities of peaches, apricots, melons and other perishable crops ripening too quickly to be shipped any great distance rot in the orchards and fields for lack of market here.

A local sub-committee of the state council of defense believes that an efficient plan of conservation, with the co-operation of business men, growers and housewives of the valley would go far to prevent not only this colossal waste but the small household losses too common in the American family of today.

Dr. May Neff, member of the state council of defense and chairman of the local sub-committee on food conservation, will preside. Among the speakers will be George Smalley, secretary of the state council of defense, Prof. R. H. Forbes of the department of agriculture, University of Arizona, Mrs. Edith Salisbury, head of the department of economics, University of Arizona; Leonard S. Parke, local leader of the agricultural extension service, University of Arizona; Miss Julia Harbeson, head of the domestic science, Phoenix Union High school, and O. C. Bartlett, assistant state entomologist.

Anyone having experience in drying or canning fruits and vegetables, or knowledge of local marketing conditions, is especially urged to attend this conference and assist in the formulation of a practical plan for food conservation, which must be put into operation without delay to be effective.

are subjected to great temptation through the liquor evil; and

Whereas, Other warring nations have found it expedient to remove this curse, thus rendering their armies physically and morally more efficient to their nations; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the members of the Mary Brodie Auxiliary No. 1, Arizona United Spanish War Veterans, that we petition congress to prohibit the manufacture of grains into liquor; and further petition them to prohibit the disposing of liquor to all soldiers, sailors and marines and all public officials; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to our representatives in congress with the request that they do all in their power to further the passage of necessary legislation to carry into effect the above petition.
